PRESERVE PEACE ON AMERICAN CONTINENT

LEAGUE NATIONS ACTS SECOND TIME IN MATTER

COUNCIL DISCUSSES THREAT OF WAR BETWEEN BOLIVIA AND PARAGUAY

CABLES TO GOVERNMENTS CONFIDENCE THAT DISPUTE WILL NOT BE SERIOUS

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Lugano, Switzerland, Dec. 11. — The League of Nations acted today for the second time to preserve peace on the American continent.

The council of the league met and discussed the threat of war between Bolivia and Paraguay.

The council, in secret session, authorized Aristide Briand, its president, to prepare the draft of a cablegram to Bolivia and Paraguay. The council adjourned until 3:30 P. M., when it was scheduled to meet and approve the cablegram.

It was understood the message would urge the two nations, at odds over a border dispute, to use the utmost moderation and attempt to reconcile their differences in conformity with their own treaties of arbitration and conciliation.

Not only will it be the second time the league has acted in the interests of peace in the new world, but it showed the possibility that the league may be able to exert a peaceful influence without actually intervening in a dispute.

Briand's cablegram to Paraguay and Bolivia was sent at 4 P. M. The text was identical to each country.

The council had been reconvened at 3:30 P. .M and approved the cablegram. The council acted on the assumption that the situation in South America had not become worse The text will be made public shortly.

Lugano, Switzerland, Dec. 11. — The council of the League of Nations cabled to the governments of Paraguay and Bolivia today expressing confidence that the border dispute between the two nations would not become serious.

It was the second time the league has acted in the interests of peace in the western hemisphere.

An almost identical precedent for the council's action was recalled by league members in the incident of 1921, when a dispute occurred between Costa Rica and Panama. The league council, meeting in Paris, sent the two states identical cablegrams which, it was understood were used largely as a model today in preparing the messages to Bolivia and Paraguay.

The cablegram was prepared by Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France and president of the council, and approved by the counsel. The text, which was sent unchanged to both nations, said:

"The council of the League of Nations, meeting in Lugano for its 23rd session, expresses the full conviction that the incidents which have occurred between two members of the league will not become serious.

"It does not doubt that two states which, by signing the covenant, have solemnly pledged themselves to seek by pacific means a solution of disputes arising between them, will have recourse to such methods as would be in conformity with their international obligations and would appear in the actual circumstances to be most likely to ensure, together with the maintenance of peace, the settlement of their dispute.

"Aristide Briand."

TRANSIENT SUBJECTED TO SANITY TESTS FOLLOWING SHOOTING

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Axel Baetilla, 46, transient, was to be subjected to sanity tests today in connection with the perhaps fatal shooting of a policeman and an attempt to rob the First National Bank here yesterday.

With eight sticks of dynamite suspended about his shoulders and brandishing a revolver, Baetilla entered the bank and presented W. E. Wells, cashier, with a note demanding $50,000. A bystander brought police before Wells could open the vault.

Baetilla shot twice and seriously injured Edward S. Ryan, patrolman, before he was subdued by a squad of police.

Action On Kellogg Anti-War Treaty Is Delayed

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC ON WEST COAST WANES

Los Angeles, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—The influenza epidemic raging through southern California for the past three weeks apparently was on the decline today.

In Los Angeles the health department said that from a high of 800 cases last Thursday, illnesses brought to the attention of the department numbered less than 300 yesterday.

Over the week end 24 deaths were attributed to influenza and complications of the malady.

KING GEORGE ENJOYS SEVERAL HOURS OF SLEEP

TEMPERATURE OF THE ENGLISH MONARCH REMAINS HIGH; GAINS IN STRENGTH

MEDICAL CIRCLES, HOWEVER, ADMIT CONDITION OF KING IS "CRITICAL"

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 11.—An official bulletin issued by King George's physicians at Buckingham Palace shortly before noon today said:

"The king had several hours' sleep. The temperature remains high, but there is further evidence of strength

"Signed, Stanley Hewett, Dawson of Penn."

Medical circles here today admitted that the condition of King George was "critical," however. Infection from his affected lung is spreading to other parts of the body and is affecting his heart.

During the night, officials at Buckingham Palace described the king's condition as one of "disquietening anxiety." The king was said to have had little sleep last night.

The principal cause of the anxiety was the statement contained in the bulletin issued about 8:45 P. M. yesterday indicating a return of the general infection which had previously returned to a localized condition. The doctors then had thought that they had the infection under control.

This bulletin said:

"The king has had a quiet day. Signs in the lung have improved. The fever persists, though it is not as high as last evening, and is due to some return of the general infection, which naturally affects the condition of the heart."

Meanwhile, the Prinec of Wales, heir to the throne, was rushing across Europe on a special train. His train is now in the rolling country of the Swiss Alps. He will reach English soil late tonight or early tomorrow morning. He is returning from an interrupted tour of America, having been recalled on account of his father's illness.

The medical correspondent of The Daily Mail in commenting on the Monday bulletins said, "They would make any physician anxious." He pointed out that the return of the general infection meant that some microbes are circulating through the main bloodstream, the "battle-front" is becoming widespread, and the condition of the heart affected.

"Not only is the heart posioned, but it has to deal with the ravages of a disease which is most difficult," the correspondent concluded.

The entire nation is anxiously awaiting the return of the prince, since some medical circles hope that seeing his son will instill in the king a new determination to recover.

REPORTS ARE COMPILED FROM 26 STATES

21,238 NEW CASES DEVELOPED IN WEEK ENDING DEC. 8

OFFICIALS SAY THIS IS PROBABLY ONLY ONE-FIFTH OF THE TOTAL CASES

Washington, Dec. 11. — (UP) — The United States public health service said today an influenza epidemic now centered in the middlewest, is spreading eastward and may sweep the entire nation.

Reports from 26 states compiled today showed that 21,238 new cases developed in the week ending Dec. 8, and officials said this was probably but one-fifth of the total cases. In Kansas, 13,596 new cases were officially reported.

Deaths so far are not numerous and health officials, although warning the public to take precautions against the disease, said the mortality rate probably would be much lower than in the winter of 1918-19.

For the week previous, 19,000 new cases were reported. The following are statistics for states where the epidemic is most severe:

Montana, 4,580 cases; Colorado, 1,936 new cases; New Mexico, 170; Arizona, 100; Wisconsin, 107; North Dakota, 194.

Other reports of new cases, available at the service, included:

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 11. — An epidemic of influenza in the milder stages has swept the southwest, crippling school systems in some places and causing a limited number of fatalities. The state board of health of Kansas reports nearly 14,000 cases of influenza in Kansas and three deaths, all at Wichita. A fourth death was reported at Parsons, Kas.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—After claiming scores of lives on the west coast, one of the worst epidemics of influenza this country has experienced since the war was making headway today in numerous localities of the middle west.

A survey of the situation based on the United Press reports from the entire western area is as follows:

Los Angeles reported the epidemic was waning there with the number of cases reduced to 300. There were 24 deaths over the week-end.

The University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., was closed until after the Christmas holidays in an attempt to prevent the disease from taking hold among the students.

Other reports from the southwest showed schools were closed in Dearborn, Mo., and Norton, Kas. The Kansas health department said there were 14,000 cases of influenza in that state. Twenty-four hundred

LIVE BABY GIRL FOUND IN SEWER CATCH BASIN

New York, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—A baby girl, about four months old, was found by police today in a sewer catch basin under the pavement in Brooklyn.

The baby was taken from the sewer catch to a hospital. The infant suffered from exposure but doctors said that unless pneumonia set in she probably would live.

Joseph Berkowitz, a milk man, was traveling along his regular route in Brooklyn when he heard the indistinct cries of an infant. He traced the cries to the sewer catch basin.

The iron manhole cover was frozen down and a rescue squad had to melt the ice from around the manhole cover and then pry the big iron covering away with crowbars.

The mud within the catch basin was frozen over and on top of this lay the infant. It was whimpering and crying and plainly suffering from the acute cold. Its body was covered partly with a small cloth and partly with old newspapers. Its chest was uncovered. The infant was taken immediately to Kings county hospital.

Police started a search for the parents. No one has been found who saw anyone approach the manhole durtng the night.

The giant new organization with headquarters in New York will make no changes in the management and personnel of the separate units it was announced but will be controlled by the Hahn Company. Savings due to pool buying of merchandise is expected to amount to millions of dollars annually.

Hahn Inc., has an authorized capitalization of $60,000,000 of 6½ per cent convertible stock of which $23,000,000 is to be outstanding and 5,000,00 shares of common stock of which 1,284,000 shares are to be outstanding.

Other nationally known stores in the giant merger include the John Marsh Co., Boston; the Bon Marche, Seattle; the James Black Dry Goods Co., Waterloo, Ia.; Dudge & Guenzel Co., Lincoln, Neb., and the Muller Co. Ltd., Lake Charles, Louisiana.

The merger follows like consolidations in the steel, automobile, flour milling and other industries.

LITTLE HOPE FOR SETTLING BORDER DISPUTE

PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA BLAME EACH OTHER FOR THE CLASH

CLIMAX OF LONG-STANDING DISPUTE OVER SOVEREIGNTY OF CHACO REGION

Buenos Aires, Dec. 11.—(UP) — The latest dispatches from Asuncion, Paraguay, and La Paz, Bolivia, leave little hope today for an immediate amicable settlement of the dispute which grew out of the border incident last week.

Both countries blame the other for the border clash at Fort Vanguardia which was the climax of a long-standing dispute over the sovereignty of the Chaco region along the frontier.

Reports to the newspaper Presa from the Argentina-Paraguayan border today said that fresh outbreaks had occurred in the disputed territory. News of the clashes was received in private messages to the border.

Other outbreaks were said to be imminent.

The correspondent of La Presna at Posadas, Argentina, reported today that the Paraguayan government is planning a general amnesty for all political prisoners. Bolivia already has declared such an amnesty.

La Presna's La Quiaca correspondent wired today that the former Paraguayan charge d'affaires, Elias Ayala, told him on passing through that town that he met with several hostile demonstrations in Bolivia. He said that at Uyuni several shots were fired at his train.

The governments of both countries are solidly supported by all shades of political opinion.

Bolivia's adherence to her policy of maintaining army posts within the disputed territory indicates that Paraguay will consider that the "military penetration" continues to exist.

A much larger force could be placed in the field by Bolivia than by Paraguay. The Bolivian army is at present the strongest in the country's history. The air force is particularly strong.

The Paraguayans, however, would, no doubt be better acclimated to the Chaco district, where the fighting would no doubt occur.

The fact that the Chaco district borders also on Brazil and Argentina, might result in a widespread complication in the event of war.

La Paz, Bolivia, Dec. 11. — The foreign office issued an official communique today denying allegations by Elias Ayala, formerly Paraguayan charge d'affaires at La Paz, who has arrived at Buenos Aires, that he was mistreated while going through Bolivian territory.

The communique said that an automobile had been placed at the disposal of the Paraguayan mission after Ayala had been handed his passports, but the diplomat signified a desire to go by another route, railway train to the frontier town of Villazon.

Public nervousness, which became intense after the clash between Bolivian and Paraguayan troops at Fort Vanguardia last week and which resulted in the killing of a number of Bolivian soldiers, is still running high.

The Newspaper Tribuno De Salmanca today said the only possible reparation for the Bolivians would be to resort to war. The chamber of deputies, which met yesterday to consider the situation, continued its session far into the night. Earlier, the chamber of deputies gave the government policy a vote of confidence by a huge majority.

Through the Bolivian minister at Berne, Switzerland, the entire facts in the situation have been placed before the League of Nations, although it is the general opinion in official circles that Bolivia has virtually withdrawn from the league.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 11. — Unconfirmed reports from La Paz today said that the Bolivian cabinet intended to resign permitting President Slies to reform a cabinet in accordance with the national exigency without regard to party interest.

It was also reported that possible diplomatic changes are imminent.

DELAY REQUEST IS MADE BY SENATOR REED

MISSOURIAN IS LEADER OF A GROUP OF RESERVATIONISTS

SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE TO MEET AGAIN FRIDAY

Washington, Dec. 11—(UP)—Action on the Kellogg anti-war treaty was postponed again by the senate foreign relations committee today at the request of Sen. James A. Reed, Missouri, leader of the little group of reservationists.

Chairman Borah announced the committee would meet again Friday and that he was hopeful a vote could be taken then, so the treaty might be reported to the senate for ratification before the Christmas holidays.

Secretary of State Kellogg concluded his testimony before the committee in a brief executive session. He denied that Russia's signature to the pact could be interpreted as recognition, contending in a multilateral treaty nations only adhered to the document, not to each other.

Kellogg also asserted the treaty could have no effect upon the Monroe Doctrine because that doctrine is considered an essential part of this country's national defense. Correspondence prior to signing of the treaty reserved national defense rights to each nation, he pointed out.

Reed sought the delay so that he might "look into some matters." He is expected to present a minority report for the committee on the Monroe Doctrine.

Washington, Dec. 11. — Private senate polls indicating a safe majority for the Kelogg anti-war treaty caused a change of point by the opposition as the foreign relations committee met today to re-examine Secretary of State Kellogg concerning details of the war disavowal now signed by 59 nations.

HUSBAND STABS WIFE AS SHE LIES IN BED WITH 9 DAY BABY

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mary Phelan, 18, today was in a serious condition in the hospital where last night her husband, Thomas Phelan, 26, stabbed her as she lay on a bed beside her nine day old baby daughter.

Phelan told police to whom he surrendered immediately after attacking his wife that he had worried because he could not support her. Later he said he had wounded her because he feared she planned to leave him and live with her parents.

HUNDREDS OF POSTMASTERS HAVE GIVEN DONATIONS

Washington, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Hundreds of postmasters in South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Mississippi have been required to contribute part of their salaries to politicians in exchange for their appointments, according to affidavits made public today by a senate post office sub-committee.

The affidavits were gathered by the post office department at the request of the committee for use in its investigation of alleged sale of political patronage in the four states.

Public nervousness, which became intense after the clash between Bolivian and Paraguayan troops at Fort Vanguardia last week and which resulted in the killing of a number of Bolivian soldiers, is still running high.

The Newspaper Tribuno De Salmanca today said the only possible reparation for the Bolivians would be to resort to war. The chamber of deputies, which met yesterday to consider the situation, continued its session far into the night. Earlier, the chamber of deputies gave the government policy a vote of confidence by a huge majority.

Through the Bolivian minister at Berne, Switzerland, the entire facts in the situation have been placed before the League of Nations, although it is the general opinion in official circles that Bolivia has virtually withdrawn from the league.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 11. — Unconfirmed reports from La Paz today said that the Bolivian cabinet intended to resign permitting President Slies to reform a cabinet in accordance with the national exigency without regard to party interest.

It was also reported that possible diplomatic changes are imminent.

DELAY REQUEST IS MADE BY SENATOR REED

MISSOURIAN IS LEADER OF A GROUP OF RESERVATIONISTS

SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE TO MEET AGAIN FRIDAY

Washington, Dec. 11—(UP)—Action on the Kellogg anti-war treaty was postponed again by the senate foreign relations committee today at the request of Sen. James A. Reed, Missouri, leader of the little group of reservationists.

Chairman Borah announced the committee would meet again Friday and that he was hopeful a vote could be taken then, so the treaty might be reported to the senate for ratification before the Christmas holidays.

Secretary of State Kellogg concluded his testimony before the committee in a brief executive session. He denied that Russia's signature to the pact could be interpreted as recognition, contending in a multilateral treaty nations only adhered to the document, not to each other.

Kellogg also asserted the treaty could have no effect upon the Monroe Doctrine because that doctrine is considered an essential part of this country's national defense. Correspondence prior to signing of the treaty reserved national defense rights to each nation, he pointed out.

Reed sought the delay so that he might "look into some matters." He is expected to present a minority report for the committee on the Monroe Doctrine.

Washington, Dec. 11. — Private senate polls indicating a safe majority for the Kelogg anti-war treaty caused a change of point by the opposition as the foreign relations committee met today to re-examine Secretary of State Kellogg concerning details of the war disavowal now signed by 59 nations.

HUSBAND STABS WIFE AS SHE LIES IN BED WITH 9 DAY BABY

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mary Phelan, 18, today was in a serious condition in the hospital where last night her husband, Thomas Phelan, 26, stabbed her as she lay on a bed beside her nine day old baby daughter.

Phelan told police to whom he surrendered immediately after attacking his wife that he had worried because he could not support her. Later he said he had wounded her because he feared she planned to leave him and live with her parents.

HUNDREDS OF POSTMASTERS HAVE GIVEN DONATIONS

Washington, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Hundreds of postmasters in South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Mississippi have been required to contribute part of their salaries to politicians in exchange for their appointments, according to affidavits made public today by a senate post office sub-committee.

The affidavits were gathered by the post office department at the request of the committee for use in its investigation of alleged sale of political patronage in the four states.

Upon receipt of telegraphed confession of Joseph Zudenowski, in Detroit, Captain William E. Hogue (left), of Jersey City police, found boy's body in a lonely marsh near Secaucus. LEGION PLANS HOP AND DOG DERBY

New Year's Frolic to be Best Ever, Committees Plan; Carnival Novelties

CO-OPERATION ASKED

All Young Dog Mushers Urged to Get Teams in Shape for the Season's Annual

A New Year's Eve frolic and dog derby are booked on the season's schedule for the American Legion. Plans towards the success of both were made at last evening's meet of local post members.

The New Year's eve dance is to be the best ever sponsored by the Legion, members predict. It will be held in the U. C. T. auditorium, December 31. The hall will be decorated in Yuletide colors with carnival novelties. Lou's band has been engaged to furnish the music.

As this is a Legion annual affair with its finances depending much on its success, officers are asking the co-operation of all fraternal orders and societies not to sponsor any public dance that evening but to join with them in celebrating the occasion.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the annual dog derby which will be held at a date to be set later by the committee. All young dog mushers are asked to train the teams early as several prizes will be given.

The commander stressed the membership quota drive at last evening's meeting and requested all members to place their membership before the first of the year. All ex-service men who are not members if the Legion are also urged to join. The next Legion meeting will be held Monday evening, Dec. 17, at the Iron Exchange hall. All members are requested to be present. There will also be a joint meeting with the Auxiliary at that time. A Christmas party is being planned by the Auxiliary.

Apples' Keeping Qualities

Bristol university records the important fact that the keeping qualities of fruit are related to the soil in which the fruit is grown. When certain varieties of apple grown in certain places are stored they break down internally, giving rise to Jonathan spot, bitter pit and other disorders. Apples stored under the same conditions, but grown under different ones, stand the test well.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

December 11, 1903

Mrs. W. Courtney returned today from St. Paul.

Supt. R. J. Hartley left this afternoon for Milwaukee, Wis., on business.

Mrs. W. Rogers is again improving and was able to sit up some today.

Hon. A. L. Cole left this noon for St. Paul on business. Mr. Cole expects to leave with his family in a few days for Cuba, where they will spend the winter.

J. B. Hough of Pequot passed through the city today en route home from St. Paul where he has been on business. He is the gentleman who some time ago started the publication of the Pequot Enterprise which was sold a few days ago to Editor E. S. Holman, of Pine River.

J. H. O'Brien came in from the west this afternoon and proceeded to St. Cloud on business.

George E. Johnson returned yesterday afternoon from Bird Island, where he has been visiting for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kaley, of Hamline, are visiting in the city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wieland, having just returned from an extended visit to coast points.

PENNEY COMPANY TO OPEN 500 NEW STORES

New York, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Two great moves in the dry-goods chain store business were announced here today. Directors of the J. C. Penney Co. authorized the opening of 500 new Penney stores throughout the country, in addition to the regular addition already determined on for 1929.

Reginald Denny Here in New Comedy at Lyceum

"The Night Bird," now at the Lyceum theatre, is the most hilarious Reginald Denny comedy seen yet—and that is saying a lot about our favorite comedian's newest production when you remember "Good Morning Judge" and a few others.

This is an entirely new story. It is about a prize fighter and his private life and how his manager insists that he indulge in a few night excursions so that the public will like him better and go to see him fight.

Record Yield of Wheat

The bureau of crop estimates says that the largest yield, in bushels, of wheat to an acre of which it has record is 117.2 bushels. It was produced in 1895 in Island county, Washington. The acreage harvest was 18 and the yield 117.2 per acre. The field was measured and the wheat weighed. Probably a bushel per acre was lost in threshing, due to the inability of the threshing machine to produce the best results in such heavy grain.

FARMER SEEKS MONTH DELAY IN TAX DATE

THE Minneapolis Tribune gives space to the complaint of a farmer who asks a month delay in the tax date. He points out that the last half payment comes at a time when agriculture is not prepared to pay.

The argument of the proposer, a real dirt farmer, Roy F. Crowley, is well worth studying, and follows:

Moving the time for payment of second-half real estate taxes forward to December 1 will be proposed to the state legislature in January as a farm relief measure. The present "dead line" for paying taxes for the second half is October 31.

The proposal, initiated by Roy F. Crowley, well-known dairy farmer and stock breeder of St. James, has been taken up by newspapers in various parts of the state, who urge it as a worth-while measure to aid farmers. The month's delay would give farmers time to clear up their fall business of disposing of crops and livestock, they contend.

Mr. Crowley, who operates the Tilney farms of Watonwan county, puts it this way:

"A farmer's turnover is slow, due to the very nature of his business. To make a sale he cannot reach for a telephone, ask a price and complete it like a stock broker. He must investigate his market and, in case of livestock, fit his stock for months. In case of grain, he has to make delivery at some elevator. To play safe in having funds on hand November 1, he ordinarily must start his selling activity at least 10 days before November 1.

"Forcing small grain onto the market during October generally works to the benefit of the speculator. A farmer having an excellent crop of corn standing in his fields in October gets very little relief from the fact. It has to be husked, cribbed, shelled and delivered before it helps financially. Spring pigs, except in rare cases, are not ready for marketing at this time.

"The farmer who raises his tax money at this particular time is between the devil and the deep sea. He has, at this season, twine bills to meet, silo filling expenses to pay, corn huskers to pay, gas and oil bills and his ordinary overhead and living.

"To carry through and get away from penalties, the farmer calls on his banker to shift his investments; get in more money and it has a tendency to make banking a seasonal business.

"It is hard to conceive that such a change would put anyone at a disadvantage, except, perhaps, the speculator who handles farm produce that is forced on the market during the early fall."

Objections such as changing methods in county treasurer's offices and shifting allotments of taxes are not important, Mr. Crowley argued.

10,000 LAKES ASSOCIATION MEETING

AN advertising and publicity program for 1929, which will carry the story of Minnesota's advantages to all corners of the nation, will be outlined, and accomplishments of the Ten Thousand Lakes and the Greater Minnesota associations during 1928, will be reviewed at a meeting of the merged organizations in the Ryan hotel, St. Paul, Friday, December 14.

At the meeting, which will mark the twelfth annual gathering of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, a great general promotional activity will be inaugurated, and recommendations in this connection to be outlined in the report of H. C. Hotaling, state tourist commissioner, and secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, will be acted upon.

The session will open at 9:30 a. m. and delegates will have an opportunity to review the work of 1928. An address of welcome will be given by W. F. Davidson, president of the St. Paul association, and the response will be made by D. D. Tenney, president of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association. Roy E. Dunn of Pelican Rapids, president of the lakes association, will deliver his annual address.

Lieutenant Governor W. I. Nolan will be the principal speaker at a noon luncheon in the St. Paul Athletic club. Speakers on the afternoon program will include: John H. COMMERCIAL CLUB HAS RECORD MEET

The second meeting of the Commercial club was held in the Old Court House, Wednesday night, at 7:30. An election of officers was held, and the results are as follows:

President—Edith Heald.
Vice President—Ardelle Persson.
Secretary—Margaret Vadnais.
Treasurer—Ellen Berglund.

A program was given consisting of a reading by Mildred Prentice and a piano solo by Dorothy Fox. Catherine Sheets sang "Old Man Sunshine" and "A Garland of Old Fashioned Roses." She was accompanied by Mrs. Knudsen. A short sketch was given. The characters of which were:

The Boss—Elizabeth Miller.
A Lotta Speed—Edith Frost.
O Be Swift—Margareth Holmes.
Office Girl—Mary Larkin.

Miss Tornstrom gave an interesting talk on the essential qualities which Commercial students should possess. She also declared that employers demand that their employees know how to spell, paragraph and punctuate correctly.

At the close of the program, a luncheon was served.

HONOR ROLL MEETS WITH MRS. FLEMING

"An Honor Roll Student," declared Mrs. Fleming in conducting an Honor Roll meeting in Miss Marshall's room at 3:40 Tuesday, "must not only have high marks, but also conduct himself properly in classes and assembly rooms. You have an influence over other students that you yourself are unconscious of. Therefore you should always endeavor to set a good example wherever you are. An Honor Student's honor is not to be questioned."

Mrs. Fleming impressed the fact upon the students that an Honor Pupil is supposed to be worthy of the privileges granted him.

She also pointed out to the students that the Faculty would like to institute Student Participation in School Government in the new High School and that Sophomores would be the first class to have their whole year there. She stated that Honor Students would be the nucleus of the whole school then.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Fleming's talk a slip was passed around for the B Honor Roll pupils to sign and to designate the free period to which they were entitled.

Normal Training Notes

The class had three days of vacation last week during County Institute. That is, we were not at school, but it was nearly as hard to sit still and listen attentively as to recite on Pedagogy. Nevertheless, our hours were a little more reasonable.

We have been working all this week getting our library in A-1 shape. We think that it will be very satisfactory now, and the experience is doing us a great deal of good.

It was announced on Friday afternoon that selections for this year's declamatory contest might be obtained in Miss Taylor's room. As the result of this announcement, a number of those deserving to enter the contest effected a rush for the best material and from the first appearances, it looks as if we will have some live and interesting competition in the local and district contests.

Glimpses from the M.E.A.'s

Some Modern Trends in the Teaching of Mathematics

Editor's Note—Mr. Johnson has been the first of the faculty to write for the paper. It sems he got some inspirations at the M. E. A. meetings and he wants to enlighten the world. Thanks, Mr. Johnson.

A significant trend in modern teaching of Mathematics is the elimination of the obsolete. New York state is teaching in an epoch-making culling-out of obsolete material. Freshmen, how would you like to look forward to the day when you spend only half the time on factoring and fractions that you do now and all of quadratic equations is omitted and left to Higher Algebra? Only four things are to be thoroughly mastered, the formula, the equation, the use of positive and negative numbers, and the graph, and then a small amount of algebraic technique, such as the fundamental operations, some factoring, some fractions, etc. Don't get excited, though; verbal problems are included in nearly all of those divisions. Sophomores, how would you like to see the day when you can pass over the theorems on the congruence of triangles with the remark that they are obvious? And still such is the trend; omit theorems which are so easy to see that they are an insult to the intelligence to ask one to prove them. The time that is saved thus will be used for original problems which require real thinking and for including in the plane geometry course all of the course in solid geometry so that both plane and solid geometry are covered in one year.

Then, radical changes must come in the courses in arithmetic, especially in the so-called Junior high school. Europe, we are told, is far ahead of the United States in the teaching of Mathematics. They cover in six years what we take eight years to accomplish. W. D. Reeve, the principal speaker, advocated eliminating much of the obsolete from the arithmetic courses and a more thorough stressing on a few important essentials. By this means we can cover in six years what we now take eight to cover. The Junior high school Mathematics should consist of introductions to the other phases of Mathematic which the student who intends to quit after finishing the eighth grade would miss. They would include such courses as intuitive geometry, experimental geometry, and algebra, with a short introduction to trigonometry. In the more advanced years of Senior high school space is thus provided through all these omissions, for courses or introduction in trigonometry, college algebra, analytic geometry, and even calculus, as is done at the University high school.

A Hint For Santa Claus

Though many feet have strayed away
Away from home and friends,
Still many a heart is feeling blue
As toward home it bends.

How priceless is a word from home
A word of ones we knew,
Of what they say and what they see
And of the things they do.

Letters are such fickle things,
The writers are thoughtless, too;
So send as a gift the paper from home
And keep your friends from feeling blue.

IN THE CLASSROOM

Junior business training is a new course offered this year for the first time in the Brainerd high school. It is for the benefit of students who plan to take up commercial work and for those who plan to assume some junior office positions. The state is advocating it strongly for a regular high school course.

This course is meant for Freshman classes but it may be given in other classes as well as the ninth grade.

The subject contains three main objectives for the pupils:

1. To acquire an understanding of investments, insurance, banking, business forms and records, use of reference books, use of the telegraph and telephone, types of business enterprises, and safe methods of sending money and packages.

2. To develop the knowledge, skill, and proper attitude needed for junior office clerks—such as mail clerks, file clerks, cashiers, etc.

3. To serve as a tryout or preliminary course for educational guidance.

CONFERENCE TALKS CONDENSED, ROSS O.

By ROSS OLMSTEAD

"A young man is judged on the basis of his personality," said Rev Frank Jennings, chief speaker at the Older Boys Y. M. C. A. conference held in Duluth last week. "A personality is often a defect, but it can be made into an asset. It cannot be bought. A real personality is to be had only when Christ-like principles are the guides in one's life. Personality which is elusive and hard to define, comes through clean living and right thinking."

Rev. Mr. Jennings gave a series of three speeches, the first of which was entitled "My Personality." In this first talk he concluded by saying that a personality cannot be donned like a coat or hat, but must be acquired by a development of one's own latent powers and abilities.

The second discourse delivered by Mr. Jennings was on the subject of "The Fundamentals of Religion." "It is impossible," said the speaker, "for a boy to be saved at one meeting or in a moment at a revival. He must live his convictions; Christ must enter his heart; and he must overcome temptation by means of the saving grace within him. When he has fought the good fight to the best of his ability, then can it be said that he is saved.

Brainerd delegates at the conference were uplifted by Mr. Jennings third talk as well as by the other two. His third subject was "The Personality of Jesus." The speaker gave many illustrations of the wonderful power of Christ. "When Christ went to his home town with His disciples," said Rev. Jennings, "some drew back when they arrived at the outskirts of the village. They sensed the fact that Christ was to fall into trouble. However, Peter, a faithful disciple, determined to follow Him, and so great was the magnetic personality of Christ that all went with him even though danger awaited them. Christ has saved many. His power is stupendous and those who lean on Him are refreshed and revived."

Hi-Y members look forward yearly to attending these conferences especially when they can hear such able and inspiring orators as Mr. Jennings.

SOPHOMORES MAKE FINANCIAL APPEAL

"Any class organization, to be an outstanding one in any high school must pay its just debts, must assume the responsibility for individual actions in connection with school work, and must produce leaders whose ability will be recognized wherever they go," announced Miss Herwig, class adviser, at a special Sophomore meeting called last Thursday by Gerald Cass, president.

"I appeal to you, as members of the Sophomore class, to strive to do all in your power to be the organization of which I have spoken," continued the speaker.

She concluded by saying that class dues were of the utmost importance toward the carrying out of an organization, and the Sophomore class was no exception. After this heart to heart talk, all students resolved to further the advancement of their class by paying their just debts.

BRAINERD QUINT TO MEET AITKIN

The B. H. S. basketball quint will open its season's schedule Friday, when it meets the strong Aitkin team on the latter's floor. The Brainerd team has been practicing daily in its improvised quarters, going through drills which do not necessitate a large floor. On Saturday morning the squad was taken to Crosby to practice in the C.-I. high school gym so that it might obtain the necessary experience on a regulation court before the first game.

This year Mr. Kasch has introduced a new system in practice. There are three squads; the A squad consists of the first team, substitutes and the second team; the B squad of football men who will return for another season, and the C squad of a select group of Freshmen.

LIL' LIZZIE

Published for the distribution of more and better humor throughout the school and community.

The following poem is rather untimely, several weeks old, but its humorous note merits its publication.

It was taken from the Ybnac, by the way.

One day Jack Alden hopped his nag and galloped up ye Plymouth Drag, until he reached Priscilla's shack and smote ye door a hefty whack—

"I've come for Miles," the lad began,
"Thou must be tired, thou darling man."

"I've come for Miles," quoth Jack again,
"Well, amble in and rest thee then."
Right merrily did Johnnie gaze
As Pris spun yarns beside ye blaze—
And coyly did ye Pilgrim vamp,
Take bashful Johnnie into camp—
"It's Miles"—he faltered in a daze,
"Yea, love, I know 'tis quite a ways.
Wilt stay and gnaw some hash and tea?"
Quoth John, "Sure, Mike. O. K. Qui! Qui!"
"Go get a turkey," Prissie said,
But Alden shot a hen instead,
And as they chewed ye winged beast
They supped ye first Thanksgiving feast.

A telephone operator received an information call, and when she asked the person inquiring what his name was, he replied, "O'Cohen."

"What?" gasped the operator.

"O'Cohen," came over the wire.

"Just a minute," the operator replied, "the wires must be crossed."

A professor had just returned from a trip and was called upon to speak before the students.

"Celebrating my return," he began, "we will have shorter lessons." At this point he was interrupted by thunderous applause. When the uproar subsided he went on: "We will have shorter lessons." He paused for breath and dead silence was so thick that it could be cut with a knife.

Then he finished, "—for today."

The stillness was broken only by the groan of a dying freshman.

A Scottish farmer, being elected to the school board, visited the village school and tested the intelligence of the class by the question:

"Now, boys, can any of you tell me what naething is?"

After a moment's silence a small boy in the back seat rose:

"It's what ye gi'd me the other day for holding yer horse."

"Crash!"

The window splintered under the impact of the hard-kicked ball.

The small boy who had kicked the ball regarded his handiwork with round eyes. Finally, he decided to own up about it.

"I'm very sorry," he said to the occupant of the house, "but I've broken your scullery window. I'll fetch my father along to mend it."

A man came round shortly after and put in a new pane.

"That'll be $2.60," he said.

"But," protested the lady, "the little boy said you were his father."

"And he told me you were his mother," was the disconcerting reply.

"Spell ferment and give its definition," requested the teacher.

"F-e-r-m-e-n-t—to work," nobly responded Keith.

"Now use it in a sentence, so I may be sure you understand it."

"In nice weather, I would rather play tennis out-of-doors than ferment in the school house."

Following we have the barometer of high school accomplishments:

The statistics table:

	Srs.	Jrs.	Sophs	Frosh
A's	72	120	104	145
E's	6	8	23	41
Av.	83.8	84.7	83	82.2

The Freshmen lead in the number of A's, chalking up 145 to their credit but have also the most E's. The Juniors have less A's but only a fifth as many red marks. The Sophs have a goodly number of A's and not very many E's, while the Seniors have 72 A's and only 6 E's. It is a very creditable showing for all the classes, representing the usual hard studying preceding the holidays.

DEC. 18 SET FOR BRAINONIAN PLAY

December 18 is the date set for the presentation of "All a Mistake," the Brainonian benefit play. In the U. C. T. hall the curtain will roll up promptly at 8:15 upon scenes of mirth, minstrelsy and music. Tickets for the performance may be obtained from student sale agents for the sum of 35c.

"All a Mistake" is a comedy full of humorous and muddled situations arising from the confusing of the four "Nellies." A lunatic asylum next door and a meddlesome match-making old sea captain complicate matters considerably, also.

With an able cast including Allen Johnson, Edith Titus, Helen Marie Stadlbauer, Mildred Prentice, Margareth Holm, Carl Zapffe, Joe Heald and Guy Hawkins, and under the capable direction of Miss White, the play promises to be a laugh provoking success from start to finish.

Come and hear Mildred Prentice roll her Irish "r-r-r-r's"; Joe Heald's "bah joves"; Margaret Holm's advice on "how to handle men-folks"; Carl Zapffe demonstrate how futile it is to attempt to beat old Dan Cupid, and also hear the remainder of the cast prove that "the course of true love never runs smooth."

Remember "All a Mistake" at the U. C. T. hall, Tuesday, December 18, at 8:15 P. M.

JUNIORS DRAW UP NEW CONSTITUTION

Since the old constitution of the class of 1930 was destroyed in the memorable fire, it was found necessary at the Junior class meeting, Thursday, Dec. 6, to draw up a new one. The newly constructed constitution was read, discussed and approved.

A nominating committee was appointed by the president for sergeant-at-arms, an office which has not up to the present time, been filled in the history of the class.

The question of giving another benefit movie or a Junior class play to raise more funds, was brought up and voted upon. The majority of votes were for a class play, the preparation of which was turned over to Miss O'Brien, class advisor.

The regular bi-monthly business meeting of the Senior Hi-Y club was held in the Y. M. C. A. building last Wednesday, December 5 with an attendance of 22.

A complete report of the Older Boys' Conference at Duluth, attended by eight Brainerd delegates, was given by Ross Olmsted.

A discussion of a Club party followed but the exact date and place was not decided upon, and a committee was appointed to determine the question. They decided upon Saturday, December 8 and reported that the Odd Fellows hall as the only available place at which the party might be held.

(All the hair was off, so the next best thing was the neck.) This introduces the newest addition to the freaks contributed to the Biology room for study. It was hung from a ring, fastened to the skull, to the cloak hall doorway, and was studied throughout the day by all the Biology classes.

Through the kindness of Dr. Herzog, LeRoy was able to get this skeleton, whose history, Carl Zapffe promises, is very interesting and will be told to us this week.

FARMER SEEKS MONTH DELAY IN TAX DATE

THE Minneapolis Tribune gives space to the complaint of a farmer who asks a month delay in the tax date. He points out that the last half payment comes at a time when agriculture is not prepared to pay.

The argument of the proposer, a real dirt farmer, Roy F. Crowley, is well worth studying, and follows:

Moving the time for payment of second-half real estate taxes forward to December 1 will be proposed to the state legislature in January as a farm relief measure. The present "dead line" for paying taxes for the second half is October 31.

The proposal, initiated by Roy F. Crowley, well-known dairy farmer and stock breeder of St. James, has been taken up by newspapers in various parts of the state, who urge it as a worth-while measure to aid farmers. The month's delay would give farmers time to clear up their fall business of disposing of crops and livestock, they contend.

Mr. Crowley, who operates the Tilney farms of Watonwan county, puts it this way:

"A farmer's turnover is slow, due to the very nature of his business. To make a sale he cannot reach for a telephone, ask a price and complete it like a stock broker. He must investigate his market and, in case of livestock, fit his stock for months. In case of grain, he has to make delivery at some elevator. To play safe in having funds on hand November 1, he ordinarily must start his selling activity at least 10 days before November 1.

"Forcing small grain onto the market during October generally works to the benefit of the speculator. A farmer having an excellent crop of corn standing in his fields in October gets very little relief from the fact. It has to be husked, cribbed, shelled and delivered before it helps financially. Spring pigs, except in rare cases, are not ready for marketing at this time.

"The farmer who raises his tax money at this particular time is between the devil and the deep sea. He has, at this season, twine bills to meet, silo filling expenses to pay, corn huskers to pay, gas and oil bills and his ordinary overhead and living.

"To carry through and get away from penalties, the farmer calls on his banker to shift his investments; get in more money and it has a tendency to make banking a seasonal business.

"It is hard to conceive that such a change would put anyone at a disadvantage, except, perhaps, the speculator who handles farm produce that is forced on the market during the early fall."

Objections such as changing methods in county treasurer's offices and shifting allotments of taxes are not important, Mr. Crowley argued.

10,000 LAKES ASSOCIATION MEETING

AN advertising and publicity program for 1929, which will carry the story of Minnesota's advantages to all corners of the nation, will be outlined, and accomplishments of the Ten Thousand Lakes and the Greater Minnesota associations during 1928, will be reviewed at a meeting of the merged organizations in the Ryan hotel, St. Paul, Friday, December 14.

At the meeting, which will mark the twelfth annual gathering of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, a great general promotional activity will be inaugurated, and recommendations in this connection to be outlined in the report of H. C. Hotaling, state tourist commissioner, and secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, will be acted upon.

The session will open at 9:30 a. m. and delegates will have an opportunity to review the work of 1928. An address of welcome will be given by W. F. Davidson, president of the St. Paul association, and the response will be made by D. D. Tenney, president of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association. Roy E. Only four things are to be thoroughly mastered, the formula, the equation, the use of positive and negative numbers, and the graph, and then a small amount of algebraic technique, such as the fundamental operations, some factoring, some fractions, etc. Don't get excited, though; verbal problems are included in nearly all of those divisions. Sophomores, how would you like to see the day when you can pass over the theorems on the congruence of triangles with the remark that they are obvious? And still such is the trend: omit theorems which are so easy to see that they are an insult to the intelligence to ask one to prove them. The time that is saved thus will be used for original problems which require real thinking and for including in the plane geometry course all of the course in solid geometry so that both plane and solid geometry are covered in one year.

Then, radical changes must come in the courses in arithmetic, especially in the so-called Junior high school. Europe, we are told, is far ahead of the United States in the teaching of Mathematics. They cover in six years what we take eight years to accomplish. W. D. Reeve, the principal speaker, advocated eliminating much of the obsolete from the arithmetic courses and a more thorough stressing on a few important essentials. By this means we can cover in six years what we now take eight to cover. The Junior high school Mathematics should consist of introductions to the other phases of Mathematic which the student who intends to quit after finishing the eighth grade would miss. They would include such courses as intuitive geometry, experimental geometry and algebra, with a short introduction to trigonometry. In the more advanced years of Senior high school space is thus provided through all these omissions, for courses or introduction in trigonometry, college algebra, analytic geometry, and even calculus, as is done at the University high school.

A Hint For Santa Claus

Though many feet have strayed away
Away from home and friends,
Still many a heart is feeling blue
As toward home it bends.

How priceless is a word from home
A word of ones we knew,
Of what they say and what they see
And of the things they do.

Letters are such fickle things.
The writers are thoughtless, too;
So send as a gift the paper from home
And keep your friends from feeling blue.

IN THE CLASSROOM

Junior business training is a new course offered this year for the first time in the Brainerd high school. It is for the benefit of students who plan to take up commercial work and for those who plan to assume some junior office positions. The state is advocating it strongly for a regular high school course.

This course is meant for Freshman classes but it may be given in other classes as well as the ninth grade.

The subject contains three main objectives for the pupils:

1. To acquire an understanding of investments, insurance, banking, business forms and records, use of reference books, use of the telegraph and telephone, types of business enterprises, and safe methods of sending money and packages.

2. To develop the knowledge, skill, and proper attitude needed for junior office clerks—such as mail clerks, file clerks, cashiers, etc.

3. To serve as a tryout or preliminary course for educational guidance.

CONFERENCE TALKS CONDENSED, ROSS O.

By ROSS OLMSTEAD

"A young man is judged on the basis of his personality," said Rev Frank Jennings, chief speaker at the Older Boys Y. M. C. A. conference held in Duluth last week. "A personality is often a defect, but it can be made into an asset. It cannot be bought. A real personality is to be had only when Christ-like principles are the guides in one's life. Personality which is elusive and hard to define, comes through clean living and right thinking."

Rev. Mr. Jennings gave a series of three speeches, the first of which was entitled "My Personality." In this first talk he concluded by saying that a personality cannot be donned like a coat or hat, but must be acquired by a development of one's own latent powers and abilities.

The second discourse delivered by Mr. Jennings was on the subject of "The Fundamentals of Religion." "It is impossible," said the speaker, "for a boy to be saved at one meeting or in a moment at a revival. He must live his convictions; Christ must enter his heart; and he must overcome temptation by means of the saving grace within him. When he has fought the good fight to the best of his ability, then can it be said that he is saved.

Brainerd delegates at the conference were uplifted by Mr. Jennings third talk as well as by the other two. His third subject was "The Personality of Jesus." The speaker gave many illustrations of the wonderful power of Christ. "When Christ went to his home town with His disciples," said Rev. Jennings, "some drew back when they arrived at the outskirts of the village. They sensed the fact that Christ was to fall into trouble. However, Peter, a faithful disciple, determined to follow Him, and so great was the magnetic personality of Christ that all went with him even though danger awaited them. Christ has saved many. His power is stupendous and those who lean on Him are refreshed and revived."

Hi-Y members look forward yearly to attending these conferences especially when they can hear such able and inspiring orators as Mr. Jennings.

SOPHOMORES MAKE FINANCIAL APPEAL

"Any class organization, to be an outstanding one in any high school must pay its just debts, must assume the responsibility for individual actions in connection with school work, and must produce leaders whose ability will be recognized wherever they go," announced Miss Herwig, class adviser, at a special Sophomore meeting called last Thursday by Gerald Cass, president.

"I appeal to you, as members of the Sophomore class, to strive to do all in your power to be the organization of which I have spoken," continued the speaker.

She concluded by saying that class dues were of the utmost importance toward the carrying out of an organization, and the Sophomore class was no exception. After this heart to heart talk, all students resolved to further the advancement of their class by paying their just debts.

BRAINERD QUINT TO MEET AITKIN

The B. H. S. basketball quint will open its season's schedule Friday, when it meets the strong Aitkin team on the latter's floor. The Brainerd team has been practicing daily in its improvised quarters, going through drills which do not necessitate a large floor. On Saturday morning the squad was taken to Crosby to practice in the C.-I. high school gym so that it might obtain the necessary experience on a regulation court before the first game.

This year Mr. Kasch has introduced a new system in practice. There are three squads; the A squad consists of the first team, substitutes and the second team; the B squad of football men who will return for another season, and the C squad of a select group of Freshmen.

The members of the A squad are: Chadbourne, Dybvik, Foster, Gabiou, Geist, Guin, Halvorson, Hautala, Hoffbauer, Johnson, Kleven, O. Larson, McCaffrey, Marshall, Paine, Perlman, Schuety, Swanson, Wise.

LIL' LIZZIE

Published for the distribution of more and better humor throughout the school and community.

The following poem is rather untimely, several weeks old, but its humorous note merits its publication.

It was taken from the Ybnac, by the way.

One day Jack Alden hopped his nag and galloped up ye Plymouth Drag, until he reached Priscilla's shack and smote ye door a hefty whack—

"I've come for Miles," the lad began,
"Thou must be tired, thou darling man."
"I've come for Miles," quoth Jack again,
"Well, amble in and rest thee then."
Right merrily did Johnnie gaze
As Pris spun yarns beside ye blaze—
And coyly did ye Pilgrim vamp,
Take bashful Johnnie into camp—
"It's Miles"—he faltered in a daze,
"Yea, love, I know 'tis quite a ways.
Wilt stay and gnaw some hash and tea?"
Quoth John, "Sure, Mike. O. K. Qui! Qui!"
"Go get a turkey," Prissie said,
But Alden shot a hen instead,
And as they chewed ye winged beast
They supped ye first Thanksgiving feast.

A telephone operator received an information call, and when she asked the person inquiring what his name was, he replied, "O'Cohen."

"What?" gasped the operator.

"O'Cohen," came over the wire.

"Just a minute," the operator replied, "the wires must be crossed."

A professor had just returned from a trip and was called upon to speak before the students.

"Celebrating my return," he began, "we will have shorter lessons." At this point he was interrupted by thunderous applause. When the uproar subsided he went on: "We will have shorter lessons." He paused for breath and dead silence was so thick that it could be cut with a knife.

Then he finished, "—for today."

The stillness was broken only by the groan of a dying freshman.

A Scottish farmer, being elected to the school board, visited the village school and tested the intelligence of the class by the question:

"Now, boys, can any of you tell me what naething is?"

After a moment's silence a small boy in the back seat rose:

"It's what ye gi'd me the other day for holding yer horse."

"Crash!"

The window splintered under the impact of the hard-kicked ball.

The small boy who had kicked the ball regarded his handiwork with round eyes. Finally, he decided to own up about it.

"I'm very sorry," he said to the occupant of the house, "but I've broken your scullery window. I'll fetch my father along to mend it."

A man came round shortly after and put in a new pane.

"That'll be $2.60," he said.

"But," protested the lady, "the little boy said you were his father."

"And he told me you were his mother," was the disconcerting reply.

"Spell ferment and give its definition," requested the teacher.

"F-e-r-m-e-n-t—to work," nobly responded Keith.

"Now use it in a sentence, so I may be sure you understand it."

"In nice weather, I would rather play tennis out-of-doors than ferment in the school house."

YE EDITOR

Following we have the barometer of high school accomplishments:

The statistics table:

	Srs.	Jrs.	Sophs	Frosh
A's	72	120	104	145
E's	6	8	23	41
Av.	83.8	84.7	83	82.2

The Freshmen lead in the number of A's, chalking up 145 to their credit but have also the most E's. The Juniors have less A's but only a fifth as many red marks. The Sophs have a goodly number of A's and not very many E's, while the Seniors have 72 A's and only 6 E's. It is a very creditable showing for all the classes, representing the usual hard studying preceding the holidays.

DEC. 18 SET FOR BRAINONIAN PLAY

December 18 is the date set for the presentation of "All a Mistake," the Brainonian benefit play. In the U. C. T. hall the curtain will roll up promptly at 8:15 upon scenes of mirth, minstrelsy and music. Tickets for the performance may be obtained from student sale agents for the sum of 35c.

"All a Mistake" is a comedy full of humorous and muddled situations arising from the confusing of the four "Nellies." A lunatic asylum next door and a meddlesome match-making old sea captain complicate matters considerably, also.

With an able cast including Allen Johnson, Edith Titus, Helen Marie Stadlbauer, Mildred Prentice, Margareth Holm, Carl Zapffe, Joe Heald and Guy Hawkins, and under the capable direction of Miss White, the play promises to be a laugh provoking success from start to finish.

Come and hear Mildred Prentice roll her Irish "r-r-r-r's"; Joe Heald's, "bah joves"; Margaret Holm's advice on "how to handle men-folks"; Carl Zapffe demonstrate how futile it is to attempt to beat old Dan Cupid, and also hear the remainder of the cast prove that "the course of true love never runs smooth."

Remember "All a Mistake" at the U. C. T. hall, Tuesday, December 18, at 8:15 P. M.

JUNIORS DRAW UP NEW CONSTITUTION

Since the old constitution of the class of 1930 was destroyed in the memorable fire, it was found necessary at the Junior class meeting, Thursday, Dec. 6, to draw up a new one. The newly constructed constitution was read, discussed and approved.

A nominating committee was appointed by the president for sergeant-at-arms, an office which has not up to the present time, been filled in the history of the class.

The question of giving another benefit movie or a Junior class play to raise more funds, was brought up and voted upon. The majority of votes were for a class play, the preparation of which was turned over to Miss O'Brien, class advisor.

The regular bi-monthly business meeting of the Senior Hi-Y club was held in the Y. M. C. A. building last Wednesday, December 5 with an attendance of 22.

A complete report of the Older Boys' Conference at Duluth, attended by eight Brainerd delegates, was given by Ross Olmsted.

A discussion of a Club party followed but the exact date and place was not decided upon, and a committee was appointed to determine the question. They decided upon Saturday, December 8 and reported that the Odd Fellows hall as the only available place at which the party might be held.

(All the hair was off, so the next best thing was the neck.) This introduces the newest addition to the freaks contributed to the Biology room for study. It was hung from a ring, fastened to the skull, to the cloak hall doorway, and was studied throughout the day by all the Biology classes.

Through the kindness of Dr. Herzog, LeRoy was able to get this skeleton, whose history, Carl Zapffe promises, is very interesting and will be told to us this week.

"GOOD BALL PLAYERS ARE HARD TO GET" SAY CLUBS

NO TRADES, NO DEALS ARE IN SIGHT NOW

MANAGERS AND MAGNATES AT ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

EVERY BALL CLUB LOOKING FOR GOOD BALL PLAYER, BUT NOTHING TO GIVE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 11.—"Good ball players are hard to get." Managers and magnates here for the annual meeting of the National League were saying it over and over again today without really saying it at all.

No trades, no deals, nothing.

"Looks like you can't trade a ball player nowadays unless you give an able-bodied .350 hitter for a broken down veteran," one manager mused.

Every ball club was looking for a good player, but had nothing to give in return. The Pittsburgh Pirates had Glenn Wright, star shortstop and one of the best players in the National League, on the trading block, but thus far no one was willing to offer anything like an even exchange for him.

Wright is in much the same fix as Kiki Cuyler at Pittsburgh, and got into a rut last year. A change of scenery might bring Wright back to his former brilliance, but apparently no one wants him.

Several clubs came here expecting to make deals, but none of them could agree on any trades at yesterday's gathering and none were in prospect for today. The New Giants sold Vci Aldridge, the recalcitrant pitcher, and Russell Wrightstone, utility infielder, to the Newark International League club yesterday.

Several clubs may release veterans soon. Among those slated to go are Wally Pipp, veteran first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, and Jimmy Ring, veteran pitcher of the Phillies.

Nothing was done at yesterday's preliminary meeting. John Heydler's re-election as president of the National League was scheduled for today's session. He is unopposed.

And unless somebody decides at the last minute to trade 'even-steven' the National League men will move on to Chicago for the joint session with the American League Thursday.

MEN BEHIND IT NOT LOSING SLEEP OVER INVESTMENT

10 TEAMS IN NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE OFF TO GREAT START

RACE IS ONE WHICH WILL LURE DOLLARS FROM POCKETS OF FANS

By WILLIAM J. DUNN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 11.—The men behind professional hockey will never lose sleep by worrying about their investment if every season can produce the competition that has made the battle for the 1928-29 championship of the National Hockey League the most promising in history.

A glance at the standing of the 10 teams today would almost convince a skeptic that the whole race had been arranged in advance to lure the dollars from the pockets of fans.

Four teams are tied for the league leadership. Four others are grouped just a single point behind.

In hockey the scorers who compile the official standing of the league teams, award two points for each game won and a single point for a tie.

Ottawa, Montreal Maroons, New York Rangers and Detroit are out in front with a total of 11 points. The Montreal Canadiens, New York Americans, Toronto and Boston are a snigle point behind. Pittsburgh has five points and Chicago three.

Tonight the leaders may be scattered. Four league games will be played and seven of the leading teams will be in action.

CLEVELAND TRADES UHLE TO DETROIT

Chicago, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland American league baseball club announced today that Pitcher Uhle has been traded to Detroit for Kenneth Holloway, pitcher, and John Tavener, infielder.

Surest Way of Getting It

It's a good plan to hope for the best, but it's a better plan to work for it.

Big Jack for L'll Uzcudon

© 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

By QUIN HALL.

PAOLINO UZCUDUN, the Basque sapling whittler, who is being hailed by a good many people as the fellow who is going to finish the current heavyweight elimination tournament with a chance for a shot at the crown, has booked plenty of battles, so that he should not have to worry about where the coin for his Christmas shopping is coming from.

Uzcudun will spend Christmas in Cali, Colombia, as he is billed to rough it with Jack Renault in that port on the evening of Dec. 24. But spending Christmas in Cali is not going to be hard on the Basque, because his pockets will be well lined with kopeks, and, unless the dope is all upset somewhere along the line of scrimmage, he still has that crack at the crown ahead of him.

The Christmas Eve festivities between Renault and Paolino will be the feature attraction of the ring show to be staged in honor of the opening of the Pan-American Olympiad at Cali. Renault doesn't loom as a tough customer for the rugged Uzcudun, and in the Basque's record it will undoubtedly be scratched up as just another battle.

While still lacking a bit of being a finished product so far as boxing is concerned, Uzcudun has made great strides toward ring greatness since he landed here from Spain. His first shots proved him to be a wildly swinging glove pusher with powerful strength back of his windmill tactics. Gradually he absorbed some of the advice which his handlers were trying to wheedle into him and in later appearances the results were apparent. While he still swung wildly at times, there were other times when he would step in and show a little class. He wasn't afraid and he could soak up punishment like a hot sun soaks up a mud puddle. That won him a lot of friends among the fans.

Then Uzcudun, sensing million-dollar gates and surrounded by a mob of managers he had acquired along the route to fame, started to hold out for big purses. He wanted money and he wanted it in big stacks. He had to be fed and there was a horde of hangers-on who were using him as a meal ticket. For a time this yearning for big money threatened to sidetrack him but someone must have put a bug in his cauliflowered ear because he now seems willing to mix it without having the Bank of England dumped in his lap.

Tex Rickard, always seeking color and realizing the international aspect of Uzcudun as a contender, feels that the Spanish heavyweight must be given consideration in his search for a new champion to succeed the retired Gene Tunney.

Paolino has fought plenty around New York and has shown quite a lot of stuff despite the fact that he failed to distinguish himself in his two meetings with Tom Heeney, the Solid Rock from Down Under, who failed in his efforts against Tunney in what was later discovered to be Gene's last appearance—and last in this case means nothing but final.

There is still talk of Dempsey coming back to the wars and it is rumored in fighting circles that Uzcudun will be Jack's opponent and that the bout is already on the books for sometime near the middle of June. That's the chatter and a lot of the boys feel as if it is the dope on the heavyweight situation. There are others who feel that Dempsey will never return to the ring and that Mr. Rickard is using the conversation merely as a ballyhoo. Your own personal guess on the situation is probably as good as the next fellow's.

Meanwhile there is sure to be some more eliminating around New York, and there is likely to be some melees staged where in one evening two leading contenders—or so-called contenders—will be automatically eliminated.

When the dust of early Spring is kicked up, however, it is pretty safe to say that Paolino Uzcudun, the wood chopper, will be among those present.

Peaks of Desire

by Kane O'Day

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and introduces her to a new world. She is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and later asks her employer to hire Steve. One night Pagalos makes love to Ann, and in the battle which ensues between him and Steve, the Greek is made to realize his error. That night Steve confesses his love to Ann, and they embrace. Steve leaves his job to go into the trucking business. In the meantime Jerry Dunn returns from a trip and tells Ann he is no longer heartbroken over her. While they are chatting, Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's appears. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her. Ann denies this, and Steve, who has come in, says he does not love Maizie. Maizie breaks into sobs and Ann and Steve leave her with Jerry. He finds himself taking an interest in the girl, and when he tries to soothe her she tells him it wouldn't be hard for her to fall in love with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

THE woman eyes of Maizie took in Jerry's astonishment at her bold statement.

"You mustn't talk to men that way," he told her severely. "It sounds as though you were trying to throw yourself away too easily."

"You don't understand me," she said, a strained look on her face. "When a thing is in my mind I can't cover it up. I got to say what I think."

"Well, you mustn't think about being in love with me."

"I wasn't trying to throw myself at your head—the way it sounded," Maizie protested, struggling to make her thoughts clear. "I meant I might be almost in love with you—a guy like you. But it was just an idea, a sort of dream. I was really trying to get Steve out of my head and I turned my thoughts to you just to see how it would feel to consider somebody else besides Steve."

He was surprised to find that she had, instinctively, struck upon an established principle of psychology. "You're a brighter girl than I thought," he smiled. "Your natural instinct told you at once what it has taken the college professors a long time to find out—the principle of substitution. If you want to get rid of an idea yank it out of your mind and plug the gap with another idea. Don't try to leave the vacant space empty or the old idea will come back."

He laughed. "Maizie, you're a highbrow, even if you don't know it."

"When you talk to me that way," she said, helplessly, "you get me all up in the air. I don't know what it's all about—but you're sure one guy that knows how to sympathize with a girl. Most fellows are only after what they can get."

Even before he could answer there was the soft sound of rapping on his door. Both of them knew instinctively that it was a woman—that it was Ann. Jerry opened the door.

When she came in it was evident that Ann had not even started to prepare for bed.

"I've been sitting in my room thinking this all over and I thought I ought to come back," she said with a slightly self-conscious smile.

"Glad to have you," Jerry declared. "We're just chewing the rag and trying to shake off the jinx. Won't you sit down and have a cigarette?"

"Thanks," said Ann. She tried to look at Maizie in the friendliest way possible, but she had a feeling her behavior was stiff, artificial. Jerry lit her cigarette; it was easier to be nonchalant when smoking. "What I really want to do is to apologize to you." She looked straight at Maizie.

"You don't owe me no apology," Maizie answered. "I was sore and hurt, and I said some reckless things—but I'm getting over it now."

"It's nice of you to look at it that way, but I know I acted terribly," Ann insisted. "We're just a couple of girls and you got the worst of it—or thought you did. Instead of being friendly with you I acted like a ramrod. Maybe there's some way I can help you out, if you would let me."

"I don't know what you could do," Maizie said, embarrassed. "I'm all right now."

"We might at least be friendly," Ann suggested.

"You'll find Maizie is a pretty real sort of little person," Jerry put in.

But Ann knew in her heart that she would never quite be able to fraternize with Maizie Thompson as an equal. The external cheapness of the girl offended her good taste and inevitably shut off any understanding of a hidden, finer strain. The feeling uppermost in Ann's mind concerning Maizie was pity, an aloof sympathy for the other girl's unhappiness. But that sympathy could not easily be converted into a warm glow. Between them, no matter what words passed their lips, would always exist a submerged sense of rivalry.

It was possible for them to ignore the subject of Steve Harrison and they did, but Ann was definitely aware that she had, perhaps unwittingly, deprived Maizie of his attentions. Steve had not loved the girl, that much was evident, but he had filled her life with hope and desire. No girl of Maizie Thompson's type could ever forgive the girl who had supplanted her. Still, Ann wanted to be generous.

"I wish you would come and have lunch with me some day," she said to Maizie.

The girl smiled thinly. "I eat in the factory and carry my own lunch with me."

"Then let's have dinner together some night."

Maizie made an effort to be amiable. "That's awfully nice of you, but what's the use?

"I know you're trying to be pleasant to me, but it wouldn't be very interesting for us to sit around and talk about something else when we'd both be thinking about Steve, would it?"

"There are other things in the world besides men to talk about," Ann smiled.

"Come on, Maizie, let's get started. I'm going to take you home."

"Yes, but men are most important—for girls our age. What's the use of kidding ourselves? We both got a big feeling for Steve and you turned up the lucky number. That's all. He's for you and he can't see me at all. What's the use dragging it out?"

Ann could make a gesture of kindliness, but she did not know what to do after that.

"Well, I just thought——"

"You meant well. I will give you credit for that," Maizie smiled, although she, too, was embarrassed. "I'm sorry I said all the things I did and acted that way. You see, I guess, I haven't got the will-power to hide my feelings. With a girl like you it's different. Your heart could be smashed into a thousand pieces and you'd just smile and look pleasant."

Jerry smiled at Ann; there was a tension in the room that had been absent when he was alone with Maizie.

"Well, if you care for my opinion, I think you're both doggone nice girls," he stated, "and I hope both of you have a lot of luck. It's all in fun — everything straightens itself out in time. Come on, Maizie, let's get started. I'm going to take you home."

"GOOD BALL PLAYERS ARE HARD TO GET" SAY CLUBS

NO TRADES, NO DEALS ARE IN SIGHT NOW

MANAGERS AND MAGNATES AT ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

EVERY BALL CLUB LOOKING FOR GOOD BALL PLAYER, BUT NOTHING TO GIVE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 11.—"Good ball players are hard to get." Managers and magnates here for the annual meeting of the National League were saying it over and over again today without really saying it at all.

No trades, no deals, nothing.

"Looks like you can't trade a ball player nowadays unless you give an able-bodied .350 hitter for a broken down veteran," one manager mused.

Every ball club was looking for a good player, but had nothing to give in return. The Pittsburgh Pirates had Glenn Wright, star shortstop and one of the best players in the National League, on the trading block, but thus far no one was willing to offer anything like an even exchange for him.

Wright is in much the same fix as Kiki Cuyler at Pittsburgh, and got into a rut last year. A change of scenery might bring Wright back to his former brilliance, but apparently no one wants him.

Several clubs came here expecting to make deals, but none of them could agree on any trades at yesterday's gathering and none were in prospect for today. The New Giants sold Vci Aldridge, the recalcitrant pitcher, and Russell Wrightstone, utility infielder, to the Newark International League club yesterday.

Several clubs may release veterans soon. Among those slated to go are Wally Pipp, veteran first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, and Jimmy Ring, veteran pitcher of the Phillies.

Nothing was done at yesterday's preliminary meeting. John Heydler's re-election as president of the National League was scheduled for today's session. He is unopposed.

And unless somebody decides at the last minute to trade 'even-steven' the National League men will move on to Chicago for the joint session with the American League Thursday.

MEN BEHIND IT NOT LOSING SLEEP OVER INVESTMENT

10 TEAMS IN NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE OFF TO GREAT START

RACE IS ONE WHICH WILL LURE DOLLARS FROM POCKETS OF FANS

By WILLIAM J. DUNN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Dec. 11.—The men behind professional hockey will never lose sleep by worrying about their investment if every season can produce the competition that has made the battle for the 1928-29 championship of the National Hockey League the most promising in history.

A glance at the standing of the 10 teams today would almost convince a skeptic that the whole race had been arranged in advance to lure the dollars from the pockets of fans.

Four teams are tied for the league leadership. Four others are grouped just a single point behind.

In hockey the scorers who compile the official standing of the league teams, award two points for each game won and a single point for a tie.

Ottawa, Montreal Maroons, New York Rangers and Detroit are out in front with a total of 11 points. The Montreal Canadiens, New York Americans, Toronto and Boston are a snigle point behind. Pittsburgh has five points and Chicago three.

Tonight the leaders may be scattered. Four league games will be played and seven of the leading teams will be in action.

CLEVELAND TRADES UHLE TO DETROIT

Chicago, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland American league baseball club announced today that Pitcher Uhle has been traded to Detroit for Kenneth Holloway, pitcher, and John Tavener, infielder.

Surest Way of Getting It

It's a good plan to hope for the best, but it's a better plan to work for it.

Big Jack for L'll Uzcudon

© 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

By QUIN HALL.

PAOLINO UZCUDUN, the Basque sapling whittler, who is being hailed by a good many people as the fellow who is going to finish the current heavyweight elimination tournament with a chance for a shot at the crown, has booked plenty of battles, so that he should not have to worry about where the coin for his Christmas shopping is coming from.

Uzcudun will spend Christmas in Cali, Colombia, as he is billed to rough it with Jack Renault in that port on the evening of Dec. 24. But spending Christmas in Cali is not going to be hard on the Basque, because his pockets will be well lined with kopeks, and, unless the dope is all upset somewhere along the line of scrimmage, he still has that crack at the crown ahead of him.

The Christmas Eve festivities between Renault and Paolino will be the feature attraction of the ring show to be staged in honor of the opening of the Pan-American Olympiad at Cali. Renault doesn't loom as a tough customer for the rugged Uzcudun, and in the Basque's record it will undoubtedly be scratched up as just another battle.

While still lacking a bit of being a finished product so far as boxing is concerned, Uzcudun has made great strides toward ring greatness since he landed here from Spain. His first shots proved him to be a wildly swinging glove pusher with powerful strength back of his windmill tactics. Gradually he absorbed some of the advice which his handlers were trying to wheedle into him and in later appearances the results were apparent. While he still swung wildly at times, there were other times when he would step in and show a little class. He wasn't afraid and he could soak up punishment like a hot sun soaks up a mud puddle. That won him a lot of friends among the fans.

Then Uzcudun, sensing million-dollar gates and surrounded by a mob of managers he had acquired along the route to fame, started to hold out for big purses. He wanted money and he wanted it in big stacks. He had to be fed and there was a horde of hangers-on who were using him as a meal ticket. For a time this yearning for big money threatened to sidetrack him but someone must have put a bug in his cauliflowered ear because he now seems willing to mix it without having the Bank of England dumped in his lap.

Tex Rickard, always seeking color and realizing the international aspect of Uzcudun as a contender, feels that the Spanish heavyweight must be given consideration in his search for a new champion to succeed the retired Gene Tunney.

Paolino has fought plenty around New York and has shown quite a lot of stuff despite the fact that he failed to distinguish himself in his two meetings with Tom Heeney, the Solid Rock from Down Under, who failed in his efforts against Tunney in what was later discovered to be Gene's last appearance—and last in this case means nothing but final.

There is still talk of Dempsey coming back to the wars and it is rumored in fighting circles that Uzcudun will be Jack's opponent and that the bout is already on the books for sometime near the middle of June. That's the chatter and a lot of the boys feel as if it is the dope on the heavyweight situation. There are others who feel that Dempsey will never return to the ring and that Mr. Rickard is using the conversation merely as a ballyhoo. Your own personal guess on the situation is probably as good as the next fellow's.

Meanwhile there is sure to be some more eliminating around New York, and there is likely to be some melees staged where in one evening two leading contenders—or so-called contenders—will be automatically eliminated.

When the dust of early Spring is kicked up, however, it is pretty safe to say that Paolino Uzcudun, the wood chopper, will be among those present.

Peaks of Desire

by Kane O'Day

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and introduces her to a new world. She is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and later asks her employer to hire Steve. One night Pagalos makes love to Ann, and in the battle which ensues between him and Steve, the Greek is made to realize his error. That night Steve confesses his love to Ann, and they embrace. Steve leaves his job to go into the trucking business. In the meantime Jerry Dunn returns from a trip and tells Ann he is no longer heartbroken over her. While they are chatting, Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's appears. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her. Ann denies this, and Steve, who has come in, says he does not love Maizie. Maizie breaks into sobs and Ann and Steve leave her with Jerry. He finds himself taking an interest in the girl, and when he tries to soothe her she tells him it wouldn't be hard for her to fall in love with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

THE woman eyes of Mazie took in Jerry's astonishment at her bold statement.

"You mustn't talk to men that way," he told her severely. "It sounds as though you were trying to throw yourself away too easily."

"You don't understand me," she said, a strained look on her face. "When a thing is in my mind I can't cover it up. I got to say what I think."

"Well, you mustn't think about being in love with me."

"I wasn't trying to throw myself at your head—the way it sounded," Maizie protested, struggling to make her thoughts clear. "I meant I might be almost in love with you—a guy like you. But it was just an idea, a sort of dream. I was really trying to get Steve out of my head and I turned my thoughts to you just to see how it would feel to consider somebody else besides Steve."

He was surprised to find that she had, instinctively, struck upon an established principle of psychology. "You're a brighter girl than I thought," he smiled. "Your natural instinct told you at once what it has taken the college professors a long time to find out—the principle of substitution. If you want to get rid of an idea yank it out of your mind and plug the gap with another idea. Don't try to leave the vacant space empty or the old idea will come back."

He laughed. "Maizie, you're a highbrow, even if you don't know it."

"When you talk to me that way," she said, helplessly, "you get me all up in the air. I don't know what it's all about—but you're sure one guy that knows how to sympathize with a girl. Most fellows are only after what they can get."

Even before he could answer there was the soft sound of rapping on his door. Both of them knew instinctively that it was a woman—that it was Ann. Jerry opened the door.

When she came in it was evident that Ann had not even started to prepare for bed.

"I've been sitting in my room thinking this all over and I thought I ought to come back," she said with a slightly self-conscious smile.

"Glad to have you," Jerry declared. "We're just chewing the rag and trying to shake off the jinx. Won't you sit down and have a cigarette?"

"Thanks," said Ann. She tried to look at Maizie in the friendliest way possible, but she had a feeling her behavior was stiff, artificial. Jerry lit her cigarette; it was easier to be nonchalant when smoking. "What I really want to do is to apologize to you." She looked straight at Maizie.

"You don't owe me no apology," Maizie answered. "I was sore and hurt, and I said some reckless things—but I'm getting over it now."

"It's nice of you to look at it that way, but I know I acted terribly," Ann insisted. "We're just a couple of girls and you got the worst of it—or thought you did. Instead of being friendly with you I acted like a ramrod. Maybe there's some way I can help you out, if you would let me."

"I don't know what you could do," Maizie said, embarrassed. "I'm all right now."

"We might at least be friendly," Ann suggested.

"You'll find Maizie is a pretty real sort of little person," Jerry put in.

But Ann knew in her heart that she would never quite be able to fraternize with Maizie Thompson as an equal. The external cheapness of the girl offended her good taste and inevitably shut off any understanding of a hidden, finer strain. The feeling uppermost in Ann's mind concerning Maizie was pity, an aloof sympathy for the other girl's unhappiness. But that sympathy could not easily be converted into a warm glow. Between them, no matter what words passed their lips, would always exist a submerged sense of rivalry.

It was possible for them to ignore the subject of Steve Harrison and they did, but Ann was definitely aware that she had, perhaps unwittingly, deprived Maizie of his attentions. Steve had not loved the girl, that much was evident, but he had filled her life with hope and desire. No girl of Maizie Thompson's type could ever forgive the girl who had supplanted her. Still, Ann wanted to be generous.

"I wish you would come and have lunch with me some day," she said to Maizie.

The girl smiled thinly. "I eat in the factory and carry my own lunch with me."

"Then let's have dinner together some night."

Maizie made an effort to be amiable. "That's awfully nice of you, but what's the use?

"I know you're trying to be pleasant to me, but it wouldn't be very interesting for us to sit around and talk about something else when we'd both be thinking about Steve, would it?"

"There are other things in the world besides men to talk about," Ann smiled.

"Come on, Maizie, let's get started. I'm going to take you home."

"Yes, but men are most important—for girls our age. What's the use of kidding ourselves? We both got a big feeling for Steve and you turned up the lucky number. That's all. He's for you and he can't see me at all. What's the use dragging it out?"

Ann could make a gesture of kindliness, but she did not know what to do after that.

"Well, I just thought——"

"You meant well. I will give you credit for that," Maizie smiled, although she, too, was embarrassed. "I'm sorry I said all the things I did and acted that way. You see, I guess, I haven't got the will-power to hide my feelings. With a girl like you it's different. Your heart could be smashed into a thousand pieces and you'd just smile and look pleasant."

Jerry smiled at Ann; there was a tension in the room that had been absent when he was alone with Maizie.

"Well, if you care for my opinion, I think you're both doggone nice girls," he stated, "and I hope both of you have a lot of luck. It's all in fun — everything straightens itself out in time. Come on, Maizie, let's get started. I'm going to take you home."

HOTEL MANAGER AND FIANCE FOUND DEAD

SHOT TO DEATH IN THEIR HOTEL ROOM, CHICAGO AUTHORITIES PUZZLED

DETECTIVES ADVANCED THEORY THAT A SUICIDE PACT EXISTED

Chicago, Dec. 11. — (AP)—Twelve hours before they were to have begun a westward honeymoon trip, Frank W. Zimmerman, 38, hotel manager, and his fiance, Florence Williams, 23, were found shot to death in their hotel room today.

Detectives advanced the theory of a suicide pact but admitted that circumstances indicated Zimmerman might have slain his fiance because of jealousy and then committed suicide.

The shooting occurred in an exclusive hotel in the near North Side where the couple had registered Saturday as Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Zimmerman. Relatives said the two were to have been married today and had planned to leave for California tonight on a honeymoon.

The theory of a jealousy slaying was supported by a telegram, addressed to Miss Williams which was found in the room. The telegram, sent from Omaha, Neb., was signed "Z'mmy" and was filled with endearing terms.

Discovery of several cards of other men among the personal effects of Miss Williams also served to strengthen the theory that Zimmerman had killed the young woman because of jealousy.

Zimmerman was sasistant manager of the McCormick hotel here and was well known in hotel circles. Miss Williams had been employed in various hotels and had made her home with a sister, Mrs. Earl Eminser.

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 11.—While 94 student victims of influenza were in the Virginia polytechnic institute hospital today, college authorities decided to allow undergraduates to return to their homes, provided permission of local health officers was received. Doctors here said the influenza cases are of the mild type.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 11.—Forty-four nurses at Grady hospital, a municipal institution, were in bed today with influenza. Hospital authorities said the nurses had caught the flu from the patients. More than 200 cases have been treated in the last two weeks.

A FULL-TIME MOTOR OIL

There is Danger in Part-Time Lubrication

Your engine needs lubrication—not part of the time—but all of the time.

Old-type, ordinary motor oil will not give full-time lubrication. After 200 miles of driving it thins out. Your engine is not getting the lubricating service it needs.

Use Iso=Vis, the constant viscosity motor oil. It will not thin out. Iso=Vis was developed in the research laboratory of this company. It was made to overcome dilution trouble—and it does.

ISO-VIS STANDARD OIL COMPANY (INDIANA) SERVICE MOTOR OIL

Prepare Your Car for Winter

Drain, flush and refill with the proper grade of Iso=Vis! At any Standard Oil Service Station and at most garages.

Give your car the advantage of full-time motor oil.
Use Iso=Vis.

Tune in next Sunday, from 6 to 7 P. M., for Chicago Symphony Orchestra, also on Thursday evenings, 9:30 to 10:00 for the Iso=Vis Entertainers, over WGN, Chicago; WTMJ, Milwaukee; WOC, Davenport; WHO, Des Moines; WOW, Omaha; WDAF, Kansas City; KSD, St. Louis; KSTP, St. Paul

Merry Christmas

By Mary Graham Bonner

MERRY Christmas to you all,
Whether you are short or tall,
Whether you are young or old,
Whether you are shy or bold.

Merry Christmas to each one,
May you all have lots of fun,
May you have of presents many,
May you not wish to change any.

Merry Christmas to each neighbor,
To idle ones or those who labor,
To those who're rich and those who're poor,
May each one feel the Christmas lure.

Merry Christmas to you now,
Here's my finest Yuletide bow,
And while I still am wishing here,
May I add—"A glad New Year?"

Information Asked Concerning Edwin Vincent, Former Brainerd Resident

Inquiry was made by letter today to Mrs. Evelyn Paine, grand lodge officer of the Pythian Sisters, concerning the whereabouts of Edwin Vincent, aged 70 years, former resident of Brainerd.

Mrs. R. S. Vincent of Aberdeen, Wash., who makes the inquiry writes as follows:

"I wonder if you could, or someone in your city, give me information where we might locate Edwin Vincent, aged about 70 years. They lived in Brainerd a number of years. His wife's name was Tena Vincent and they had two children born in Brainerd, Ralph S. Vincent, born on July 4, 1884, and his sister Florence was born three or four years later, December 26. The father left the family when Ralph was about four years old and the sister was one year old.

"There must be some old pioneers that have lived in your city for 40 years or more who might know something about my husband's father. We are anxious to locate him. Any information will be greatly appreciated."

Mrs. Vincent gave her address as follows: 609 West Curtis street, Aberdeen, Wash.

WIRE IMPROVEMENT NEAR COMPLETION

All Outside Telephone Wires in Business District to be Placed in Ground

WORK ON LAST BLOCK

Improvement Means Better Service, More Efficient and Easier Maintenance

Unless close observation is made not one telephone wire serving subscribers in the Brainerd business section in outside transmission will be noticed at the close of next week.

This interesting fact comes as a result of a two year telephonic wiring improvement in the business section whereby drop wires have been eliminated and all connections made through underground cables, rear wall and house cables. The work will be completed in two weeks, Julius Viken, wire chief of the Brainerd exchange of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company and in charge of the work announced today.

The wire men are at present working on the block bordered by Laurel, Fifth, Maple, and Sixth streets. It is the last block in the business district to be completel.

The improvement results in better service, more efficient and easier maintenance and presents a better appearance than the old method. In case of fires there will be no wires to hinder the firemen in their duties.

Actual Construction of New School to Start When Bonds, Contracts Accepted

Action of acceptance or rejection of bonds and contracts for the construction of the new high school was deferred by the Brainerd Board of Education at its meeting last evening to Wednesday evening.

The bonds and contract forms were being returned today to the successful bidders for correction in technicalities as reported by the attorneys of the board.

Actual construction work on the school will start as soon as the contracts and bonds are accepted by the board, Louis F. Hohman, secretary of the board reported today.

The report of the city and school nurse for the month of November was received and accepted. Included in the report was the announcement that scales had been donated by the Minnesota Public Health association for use in the Garfield school. The secretary was directed to write a letter of appreciation to the health association.

A communication was received from Croft and Boerner, architects, recommending the changing of the type of clock system in the proposed new high school building. The type selected by the board was the Standard. The architects recommended that the change be made from the Standard to the International Time Recording Co. The recommendation of the architects was concurred in.

The treasurer submitted the quarterly financial report ending October 31. The report was received and referred to the finance committee for checking.

The secretary was instructed to draw a warrant to the amount of $338.80 to the county treasurer as money retained from teachers salaries for the retirement fund.

Superintendent W. C. Cobb's report showing the condition of schools for the month of November follows:

Twenty-eight new pupils enrolled in the Brainerd schools during the school month of November, bringing the total number of pupils enrolled, since the beginning of September, up to 2,229. On account of the general run of measles throughout the city, school attendance for the month dropped to an average of 1,966, which was about 80 less than the month of November is given in the tabulation below:

During the month, two state inspectors visited our local schools and spent a full half day, in their respective departments, observing the work and offering suggestions to the teachers concerned. Dean Schweickhard inspected the manual training department and remarked on leaving the school that the temporary provision made for the manual training department was better than he could reasonably have expected and that the department could remain for this year in the state aided class. E. W. Everts visited the schools in his capacity of inspector of physical and health education and met all the teachers in a general teachers meeting after school, discussing in detail the state requirements in health and physical training and answered numerous questions as to how the state program could best be carried out with our local school. Mr. Everts, along with the superintendent and physical training coach, Mr. Kasch, observed all of the grade schools of the city in the conduct of their regular recess periods of supervised play. He expressed himself to the effect that decided progress had been made in the matter of more effecient organization of the playwork since his last visit one year ago.

The committee to whom was referred the selection of quarters for basketball practice have secured a vacant store room on Front street, owned by Henry I. Cohen, at a rental charge of $40.00 per month, the school district to pay for the light and any damage that may result from the use of the room for basketball. The quarters have been put in condition for the purpose and appear to be the best available at the present time.

LARSEN NOW ABLE TO EAT BREAKFAST

Cudahy Packing Co. Employe Says Results From Sargon Were Surprise of His Life

"I had not eaten any breakfast for years, but since taking Sargon I eat three hearty meals every day and relish every bite," said Louis Larsen, popular employe of the Cudahy Packing Co., who resides at 296 Bates Ave., St. Paul, Minn. "Sargon beats anything I ever heard of and I don't wonder that so many people are praising it.

"My health had been bad for years owing to the bad condition of my stomach," continued Mr. Larsen. "I was actually afraid to eat a good meal and did not know what it was to enjoy a big dinner like other folks. Even the little I did allow myself did not taste right and caused me to suffer with indigestion for hours afterward. My wife used to keep tempting dishes on the table, especially for me, but it was no use for in my condition all food was the same and I didn't dare eat more than a few mouthfuls. I would get up feeling all worn out, drink half a cup of coffee, and drag myself off to work, with hardly a spark of life in me. My liver was sluggish, my nerves shaky, and at night I did not seem able to get to sleep until I rolled and tossed until I was exhausted. I was on the down grade so fast I was not even thinking clearly.

"Sargon gave me the surprise of my life in the way it took right hold of my case and put me back in tip-top shape. I now eat three hearty meals a day and breakfast tastes as good as the rest of them. I sleep fine, get up whistling, and no matter how hard the day's work is I never get tired out, for I feel active and full of energy. There is not a trace of my old troubles left and I am one hundred per cent better in every way. Sargon is a real, not a temporary medicine, and worth many times its cost. If anybody wants to know more about it just send them to me."

Sargon may be obtained in Brainerd from Henry P. Dunn and in Pequot from A. S. Rasmussen. —Adv

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Beside, it is abolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.
